Full setup of Antamedia Internet Cafe 5.3.5 Free Download. On top of that, the application may block the access to a particular website to all the computers connected to the internet. Antamedia Internet Cafe The use of Internet cafes is rapidly growing in Russia and other countries, where it is common to use the Internet from locations outside the home or office. In addition to the use of the Internet, Internet cafes can offer services such as the use of desktop computers, or serve as the base for a full-fledged Internet business. As Internet cafes have become more popular, their business models have evolved. Different services are offered by different Internet cafe owners. For example, some Internet cafes are equipped with a public computer terminal to which customers can connect for free, whereas others charge a fee for that service. It is the typical practice that Internet cafes are allowed to offer a limited number of Internet connections, normally ranging between 1 and 8 connections, for a fee, on a rental basis, for the duration of the visit of the customer. Special attention should be paid to the use of the LAN that connects the computers of the Internet cafe to the central server or the application. That LAN may be publicly accessible, in which case all computers connected to it will be open to the public, or else it may be internal, accessible only to the computers of the Internet cafe. The use of Internet cafes can raise serious security issues, especially if there are computers that are not controlled by the Internet cafe's management. For example, if the LAN contains a computer that is not under the control of the Internet cafe's management and that could be used by hackers to connect to the Internet to gain access to private information or carry out other criminal activities, then the LAN should be separated from the Internet, such as by means of firewalls or other security measures. Features The Antamedia Internet Cafe offers the following features: - Supports multiple simultaneous connections to the Internet (up to 8) - User account management, as well as the control of the login to each computer that is connected to the LAN - User account management, as well as the control of the Internet connections that are available to the customer - Chat rooms for the customers - Game consoles for the customers (for example, for playing Windows 3.11 games) - A synchronization of the time and the bandwidth usage with the central server - General income control - Regular and weekly
