Commento.c0m Parerga e paralipomena (German: "by-products"; English "offsprings") is a work of philosophy, written by Arthur Schopenhauer in two volumes of nine books, published in 1851 and 1858. It criticizes traditional metaphysics (focusing on Hegel) and represents a major development in Schopenhauer's thought, his attempt to bridge the gulf between philosophy and religion that he described in his first major work, The World as Will and Representation (1819–1830). Schopenhauer did not complete the work until the spring of 1851, only weeks before his death in January 1851. The work is considered a major philosophical achievement. Parerga e paralipomena.
