Lung injury and disruption from cryogenic lung biopsy or transplantation is probably underreported. Trauma from extracorporeal vascular circuits is not usually appreciated, nor is bleeding into bronchi from trauma when lung is flapped or removed. Blood is then trapped in the alveoli where it is frozen, and the destruction of the arrested blood is the prime cause of the airway damage which occurs. Transection of the bronchi can be fatal, especially if the bronchi are very sensitive. Blood in the bronchial tree can cause clot formation and interstitial bleeding, and bronchial bleeding may inhibit circulation and damage the lung. The endothelial lining of bronchi also may be damaged and the plugging of the alveoli can result in death. Thawed parenchymal tissue can have an inflammatory reaction, but is usually not enough to seriously damage lung. Ask HN: What is the best music player app for Android? - _jomo My main music player is Pandora, but I wish there was something similar but better. I like that Pandora lets you create and save playlists, I don't like how they are doing their music discovery/shuffling, but I want to give something else a try.I'm not sure if this is a wish list or a question for a new HN submission, but here it goes:1. No adverts. 2. I like having a separate app for music, so it feels like it's integrated.3. Good playlist-creation. 4. Good shuffle algorithms. I like the Pandora's random playlists they have as a bonus.5. Good lyrics. 09e8f5149f
