OfficeMax Customer Service Agents, I'm writing in reference to the OfficeMax store in Romeoville, IL. I recently purchased an iPad in this location with my credit card, and upon paying the credit card bill noticed that the receipt which I signed contained a typo. Specifically, the payment terms of the bill were listed as 3% interest and a 30 day payment deadline, which should be 3% interest and a 14 day payment deadline. I immediately called customer service to notify them of this discrepancy, and was informed by a store agent that she would return to the store with a corrected copy of the receipt. This proved to be a fruitless endeavor, however, as she informed me that the original receipt was never given to her and she had no way of contacting another agent to verify the accuracy of the correction. She also stated that she would have to return to the

USB System Lock is a portable executable software package that provides the ability to prevent unauthorized use of a computer by allowing the owner of the software to access the computer and unlock it if that computer is locked by a USB drive containing the correct unlocking software key. Computer unlocking will be performed without any activity of the user because all actions will be made by the software, so the owner of the computer will have to unlock the computer or remove the key from the USB drive. About Windows Xp, Vista, Windows 7, Windows 8/8.1 and

Windows 10 USB System Lock will work in all Windows versions (Windows XP, Vista, Windows 7, Windows 8/8.1 and Windows 10). Usability USL works perfectly on any Windows operating system. It will use the built-in USB port to automatically detect a locked computer (by any USB drive or any physical token). Then it will unlock the computer by using the USB drive or token which contain the correct key. To use USL: Select the USB drive from the list of all plugged USB drives. The list can be temporary modified by pressing

CTRL+U. USB System Lock will use the selected USB drive to detect if there is the desired token or USB drive contains the correct key. Restart the computer. After reaching the required BIOS configuration screen, press F2 to access USB System Lock Setup Menu and select the option to unlock the computer. The PC will be unlocked or USB System Lock will ask for the correct key. Note: If the computer is locked, or the selected USB drive or token does not contains the correct key, USB System Lock will inform an error message and ask the owner to remove the USB token or USB drive. If the computer is locked when the system starts, USB System Lock will recognize this situation. Thus, the computer will be unlocked and USL will be automatically closed. Next time, the system will lock automatically and USL will appear. To use the USB token (Keyring) Insert a USB token (keyring) which contains the correct key into the USB port. Press CTRL+U to select and display all the USB ports. Press CTRL+R to select the port which contains the USB token. The USB token is defined as an USB keyring. Restart the computer. USL will be automatically open. To use the USB drive Select the USB drive from the list of all plugged USB
