Revenue hikes for jurisdictions hit critical flood zone tax DFLs Tammi Wilson and Jeff Hayden, followed by Rep. Phyllis Kahn, center, and Dan Schinke, right, at a news conference Monday in St. Paul that condemned the latest bill to increase the income tax for these jurisdictions. ST. PAUL, Minn. — After a decade of the same income tax rate, the political decision-making process for the St. Paul and Ramsey County Legislature is about to change in a way that will affect their budgets. On Wednesday, the legislative body will weigh a two-year extension of the state's new rate for the first time, and it will be judged against the federal flood insurance rate, and not what was deemed the state's fair share. Unlike the state's mortgage-tax surcharge that Democrats supported to clear its budget deficit, which was passed in 2011, St. Paul and Ramsey County are under pressure from Republican

Q: Why was the list not outputted? I had a simple question, and as a beginning, I was asked to code a simple program that would, when inputted, tell the computer: "Please wait. I am going to tell you what your last name is" and after typing in a person's last name, it would then tell it to print out: "What your mom's first name and dad's last name is" using "Hello" and "My name is" I know how to code a simple program, I am just at a total loss of why it doesn't work when I input "Willie Nelson" I feel like the if statement is incompletely written or something, I don't know... A: Welcome to Stack Overflow, I'll try to help you with your question. It seems that you need a "Hello" message or something. Good. You may find more on this on For what you're trying to do, I think your code is ok. So, the problem was probably on the interface you were using. At the end, I suggest you to use "print" command instead of return "hello" and also before writing while(inp.equals("")) replace this with while(!inp.equals(" ")) and after that you don't need this
