I have a stored procedure that is accepting a single parameter, which is a table that contains 2 columns. One is the column 'INDEX' and the other is the value in this column. The purpose of this is to accept different indexes and deal with them in a single loop so that we don't deal with different sets of data in the same query. I want to convert this stored procedure so that it doesn't insert all of the data into the table parameter but rather just the different index column values. I have all of the split, count and groupby done but it won't insert the table! Within a cursor (for when I do an OPEN CURSOR), in a single loop I'm doing this declare @txtindex as nvarchar(5) declare @count int declare @grouploc int set @count = (select count(*) from #tb_INDEX_USER) set @grouploc = (select groupid from #tb_INDEX_USER) declare @cur1 cursor set @cur1 = cursor for select INDEX from #tb_INDEX_USER open @cur1 FETCH NEXT FROM @cur1 into @txtindex while @@FETCH_STATUS = 0 begin set @txtindex = (select TOP 1 @txtindex + ',') + @txtindex + ',' + (select top 1 count(count) from #tb_INDEX_USER 6a5afdab4c

The Currency Rates Converter gives you the opportunity to convert the US Dollar to any of the 105 different currencies tracked by the Federal Reserve Bank. You can opt to view exchange rates in either a graph form or a plain text view, or specify a specific currency using either the country name or the currency symbol. This app has two modes of operation: "Fixed Rate" and "Flexible Rate". In Fixed Rate mode, you can choose one of two fixed rates, one for daily rates and one for weekly rates. In Flexible Rate mode, the app will automatically select an optimum rate between the two specified rates. It is important to note that these conversion rates may not be as accurate as other apps. However, their accuracy is comparable to other apps if you know how to use them. It is very important that the currency rates are updated at least every 10 minutes, because if not, the conversion rates may not represent the current exchange rates correctly. If you happen to use a different Exchange Rate system that you would like to be converted on, you will need to enter that currency's exchange rate in the "Exchange Rate" menu. View and manage currency markets as live tiles Another feature available in this app is that of live tiles. With live tiles, you can keep your currency conversion constantly on the top of your screen. You can pin them to your Start Screen or Menu, you can even click on them to convert money to that currency. When you pin the currency live tile to your Start Screen or Menu, the data shown in the tile will automatically update whenever you add or remove currencies from the "Tiles" menu. This way, you can easily check the current currency exchange rates at any time. Some of the currencies that you can set as live tiles include:
