I'm writing a code that takes a string, adds the same string with a '0' at the beginning, and saves the file. As soon as I close the program the file is written with the '0' at the beginning of the string. What am I doing wrong? public class MainClass { public static void Main(string[] args) { string[] form = new string[4]; Console.WriteLine("Enter the string:"); form[0

What's New in the Wallpaperio Samsung Instinct Maker?

Wallpaperio Samsung Instinct Maker is a wallpaper maker that creates wallpapers from pictures and photos so you can personalize your Samsung Instinct. The software can read many types of picture files (jpg, gif, png) and lets you into resize them into the proper size of your Samsung Instinct. Wallpaperio Samsung Instinct Maker will help you easily create your own custom wallpapers for your portable device! This program is for personal use only. Your satisfaction is our primary concern. You can contact us for help and suggestions. If you found any bugs, please submit your comments via our feedback page. @Joss93 I have the exact same problem. But what is worse, even though the files open fine on my phone the blank wallpapers don't show up. I've tried opening the wallpaper in an image editor and repositioning the files with the same results. The same thing happened with my Samsung Galaxy S, and I ended up just getting an unbranded one. This issue was not resolved. Your phone would simply lock up. You could click the home button, and it would work, but as soon as you attempted to open any app, it would lock up again. You can try to unlock it by holding the home button and pressing the power button at the same time. You can try and change the "Incoming Call Behavior" to "If the call is missed, will not play the ring". It might work. If you cannot make it work, your phone would be useless. If you have any further questions or suggestions, feel free to contact me: Email: kamleshkamal@gmail.com Message: (Text me to reach me) @C1-10 The trick i would suggest, is try to use your Samsung instinct with one particular app. Like Evernote, or any app you use. As sometimes we get some random bug with the app we are using. try with a different one. And also try changing your call app to something else. Its not a code issue (programming issue). It was a bug that occurred. So, i would suggest you to visit the link i posted and download the latest version of the app. If you don't want to download that, you can just try the version from the link i posted. The clock is still not working for me. It says "unfortunately, wallpapers has stopped". I've tried a different method, that everyone says works, but it does not. Any ideas? I'm trying the GPS and camera when I close the app, too. I can't find any logs in the browser, so I can't find out what is wrong. It's probably an issue with the instruction for your Samsung Instinct. Try downloading the latest version and try again. Please visit the link
