These guys have made the instrument a staple of the music industry.

They have set a high standard. But where are the names that match them? Who is the next Gibson or Martin? Do we need a new name or can we just keep using the names that were there before? Well, Bradwell Guitars is here to answer these questions. Bradwell Guitars has been designing and producing quality acoustic and electric guitars since 1996. The first guitars to be mass produced were the Bradwell "First Generation" and the "Micro 1200." The sound of these guitars can still be heard in the greatest guitarists today. Later came the "Gemini," "1000," and "1000C" series. The "Gemini" and "1000C" series are true guitars for all levels of players. With the "1000" series, Bradwell Guitars had created a guitar that was not only a true guitar, but also at a reasonable price. The "Bradwell One" series is a line of guitars that are designed
