A: Look at your terminal prompt, for example if you were using Ubuntu. Are you seeing an updated version of Splunk listed? run: `dpkg -l | grep splunk` if there is an updated version listed, remove it then install the newest version. Species-specific effects of aflatoxin B1 on hepatic glucose-6-phosphate dehydrogenase in the rat and mouse. 1. The effects of aflatoxin B1 on the enzyme activity of glucose-6-phosphate dehydrogenase (G6PDH; EC 1.1.1.49) in the liver of rats and mice were determined. 2. Pretreatment with aflatoxin B1 inhibited G6PDH activity in both rats and mice. 3. Treatment with aflatoxin B1 resulted in accumulation of G6PDH activity in the rat liver but not in the mouse liver. 4. These results indicate that the effect of aflatoxin B1 on G6PDH activity depends upon the species from which the enzyme is derived and that this dependence is more marked in mice than in rats. Q: In spring boot rest, how to set the base path in the application context file When I deploy spring boot rest application in Wildfly, the url defined in the application context file doesnt include the base path, so it doesnt seem that the base path are working properly. I've read that I should configure the base path in application.properties file. But, how should I specify the base path when I use @RestController like this: @RestController public class HelloController { @RequestMapping(value="/hello") public String handle(@RequestBody String message) { return "Hello "+message; } Is there any way to specify the base path? A: Check for the following configuration: Project/build.gradle BuildConfig.groovy WebConfig.groovy application.yml A: The property that define the base path is for tomcat, not for spring boot In spring boot application.yml spring: application: name: ${spring-boot.application.name} contextPath: ${spring-boot.application.contextPath} #basePath:
