Family members and law enforcement swarmed the Los Angeles residence of a man they say shot up his family's TV after they disrespected him and refused to hand over the PlayStation 2 video game console the family had paid $600 for. Authorities say the robbery suspect entered a home Wednesday night in the 3900 block of South Weber Avenue when the homeowner's relatives — who were inside watching the reality television show "Cops" — refused to hand over the Xbox video game console they had purchased for his children. The man, who was not identified, allegedly shot the front door and windows of the residence with the gunfire, sending glass and bullets into the family's living room, according to the Los Angeles Police Department. The suspect then took the PlayStation 2 and drove to the home of another family member. "The victim in this matter was rude to a mother and three children who had just asked to watch the popular reality show "COPS," police said in a written statement. "When the victim refused to hand over the (video) game console, the suspect used this opportunity to steal the console." After a prolonged drive along the city's freeways, the suspect's vehicle struck a traffic signal pole at Hollywood Boulevard and Van Ness Avenue at around 3 a.m. and the suspect fled the scene. No one was injured in the incident. A few hours later, police responded to a residential burglary in the parking lot of a Starbucks in Hollywood. A gunman reportedly fled from the scene with the PlayStation 2, stealing other electronics before fleeing in a vehicle. Police later located the suspect's car and a search warrant was executed at the 15th Street address in
