I have a tutorial for how to create a.exe installer with Visual Studio 2019. I will be linking to the bottom of the post so all the links for the setup are the same. Now the tutorial is only the Windows version. If you want the Mac/Linux version follow the same steps but it's a little bit more difficult. 1. In the properties window you want to be in the "custom" tab, uncheck the "Embed the runtime libraries", change "console" to "windows" and then add the location of the executable. 2. Also in the properties window, uncheck the "dont create shortcut" but also change the icon to the one you want. 3. Now go to the "configuration" tab and change the "command line arguments" to be whatever you want but you will want to pass all of the arguments needed in the format: "C:\path\to\my\setup.exe" /action=install /para="your pass code" /f="your fname.txt" I think that's all. For the Linux/Mac version you can follow the same steps as above but you will have to create an.inf file and you will have to edit the file when you are running it on a Mac and you will have to double click on it on Linux. Here is a link to it. I hope this helps :) Hey guys, I just wanted to give you a heads up for an upcoming Facebook live that I am organizing, so if you'd like to meet the team behind b7e8fdf5c8

Report Cola

What's New in the Report Cola?

Report Cola is a free, open-source application that is designed to allow you to create customized database reports. It enables you to extract relevant information from a database using its graphical user interface, and then it allows you to insert predefined objects into the report to create an attractive, tailored document. Traditionally, we've heard that women are best suited for the Personal Assistant role. Apparently, that's all changed, with a new study revealing that men are today's prime job prospects. Apparently, things are improving for men, because women are increasingly filing for help with household tasks. Maybe it's because men can now be more hands-on with children and housework as children are not now found alone in the house with no one there to help. Or perhaps men are using their new-found freedom to make the most of it. In all, even if you're the stay-at-home parent, you're not immune to budget woes. So, if you're employed and your budget is running low, you might be very happy to know that there are ways to save a few dollars. Of course, you might have been expecting to see the following phrases on this post. Restaurant-style dinner Pizza for supper Pizza in the evening Dinner with friends or family You won't see that here. We'll look at ways that will help you save money, without breaking the bank. If you're the kind of person who needs little to no help with household jobs, then you might wish to check out the salary calculator, which will enable you to work out your hourly rate and then, after that, calculate the total amount you need to earn to cover your basic needs. If you're looking to make the biggest savings, then maybe a different household task would benefit you more. The electrician will need to plan the job so it can be finished efficiently. This, of course, means looking at how to save money, such as: Speaking to the man and woman you employ to take care of your household Sorting bills and searching for discrepancies So, you could be making the most of the handyman's skills, without spending any money or wasting time.
