SimpleDiagrams Advanced. 1.1.0.86 Crack Crack Version :. Q: PHP Regex, Replace HTML Entities with the Entity Value I've got some code which fetches the HTML of a web page via a URL. This is a dynamically fetched document from a web page, so I'm not sure of the HTML code it will fetch and hence cannot predict the HTML entities which will occur. Here is the code: $html = file_get_contents("$url"); $doc = new DOMDocument(); $doc->loadHTML($html); As it's dynamic and the code is a result of a web query, the code from the HTML entity will change. E.g. the HTML will have in it, but $html will actually have: I have coded up a function which will replace with a space. However, it looks like the HTML entity is & and not . $html = str_replace("&", " ", $html); How can I use regex to convert these values into their respective values? Is there a way to do this in a PHP function? Should I consider using XSLT instead? Thanks. A: Here's how you can do it using DOMDocument. HTML; $dom = new DOMDocument();

Here's what you need to know: Analysts on the call will discuss the recent separation of XPO's lower-margin functions, its third quarter revenues, and whether XPO will launch any more spin-off companies. The company is also preparing for its IPO this year, and they'll also discuss their capital markets plans. Analysts will also discuss the company's recent acquisition of AIG Transport, the first AIG company under their holding, and what it means for the company moving forward. Butler will also hear what executives have to say about their mid-term plans, which include the company's segmented strategy for 2015 and 2016, and what their focus will be moving forward.
